

DragonFlyBSD - Bug #1562

reset(1) doesn't reset terminal to the defaults

10/06/2009 01:43 PM - corecode

Status: Closed	Start date:
Priority: Normal	Due date:
Assignee:	% Done: 0%
Category:	Estimated time: 0.00 hour
Target version:
Description
Hasso Tepper wrote: reset(1) doesn't reset terminal to the defaults. You can compare stty -e outputs before and after the issuing reset(1). Output always differs, more on some terminals, less on others. What are the defaults? I think this is due to termcap/terminfo and the terminal disagreeing on the defaults. cheers simon
Related issues:
Related to Bug #1563: reset(1) doesn't reset terminal to the defaults	Feedback

History

#1 - 03/10/2013 04:18 AM - tuxillo

- Description updated
- Status changed from New to Closed
- Assignee deleted (0)

Duplicate, closing.